

Stephanie Hodgson

Stephanie Hodgson started her BC legal career as in-house counsel and following stints as a small-firm lawyer and then opening Parents Legal Centre (Victoria) as Managing Lawyer in 2019, she now serves marginalized populations and engages in trauma informed lawyering and professional Reconciliation with Hodgson Law, Courtenay.

With a focus on cultural humility & safety combined with legal excellence and over a decade of experience, Ms. Hodgson represents parents dealing with the child protection (family policing) and family law systems on Vancouver Island from Nanaimo to Port Hardy and beyond.

As an uninvited settler, Ms. Hodgson is humbled with gratitude to make her home on the unceded territory of the Qualicum First Nation.

Passionate about access to justice, Ms. Hodgson includes legal aid work as a vital part of her practice and has recently been appointed as a lawyer with Legal Aid BC's Family LawLINE.

Ms. Hodgson has been a member of ALL since 2020 and a Director since 2023. She serves on the Articling Committee and AG Consultation Committees and chairs the Child-Protection Sub-Committee.